

BRINGING BACK

TRADITION

TO ORLAND FIRE STATIONS

In an effort to instill some fire service traditions we are having the overhead doors painted red at each of our fire stations. Historically fire station doors were painted red to identify the building quickly as a place of refuge and safety. After the doors are painted we will letter them with the appropriate apparatus for that bay.